OTHER MAN'S WIFE CLEARS SPOUSE IN
THE ODEGAARD CASE

Wife Testifies That It Was She
and Not Mrs. Odegaard Who Visited Co-respondent's Room

SON FATHER'S WITNESS

Seven-year-old Tells Story of Hotel Meeting Between Grey and His Mother

Impressed by the testimony of the other man's wife that it had been she who visited in his rooms, a circuit court jury Thursday cleared the character of Mrs. Peter Odegaard of Galesville, charged with infidelity by her husband in his attempt to secure a divorce. The verdict of the jury was returned at the morning session, after deliberation of about two hours.

Counsel for Mrs. Odegaard announced after the reading of the verdict that the accused wife plans to institute divorce proceedings against her husband. She will charge cruelty.

Fiancee Shoulders Blame
That the mysterious woman who visited P. L. Grey, Galesville cattle-buyer, in his rooms last spring, was the woman who later became his wife was the answer set forth by Mrs.
Odegaard's defense Wednesday against the evidence of the keyhole peepers who testified during the morning session of the sensational divorce case that they had seen Mrs.
Odegaard seated on Grey's lap, Mrs.
Grey herself, on the stand, swore that she had visited her husband to-be in his rooms several times at the approximate date named in Peter Odegaard's charge of infidelity against his wife, and said that it was she, and not Mrs. Odegaard whom Grey had shielded with his coat from the curious gaze of the telephone operators at Galesville.

Grey himself took the stand to testify that he did not know Mrs. Odegaard—had only met her twice, once when a supper guest at the invitation of Mr. Odegaard. The person who was in his rooms was "a friend," Mr.
Grey told the jury, and emphatically said that it was Mrs. Odegaard.

Son Testifies Against Mother
The afternoon session of the court was featured by the testimony of seven-year-old Floyd Odegaard, son of the warring couple, who listed a story of a visit to a La Crosse hotel with his mother and Grey.

Mrs. Odegaard, Grey, Mrs. Grey,
Mrs. Odegaard's brother, Emmet Amunson and Mrs. Amunson were the witnesses called by the defense during the afternoon. All of them entered a general denial to all the charges made by the husband. Mrs.
Amunson declared that she had been present during the visit of Grey to the Odegaard residence concerning which testimony was introduced by the plaintiff at the morning session.

Grey himself explained that he had only called to inquire about a satchel that Odegaard was to have brought in his stage from Melrose, and that only the most commonplace of conversation had taken place upon the occasion.

The case was given to the jury at the Thursday morning session, arguments of counsel having ended the Wednesday session.

Boy Explains Oath
The crowded court was tensely silent during the examination of little Floyd Odegaard by Judge Higbee. It was not until he had closely questioned the little chap about his knowledge of the nature of the oath that the judge finally decided that the boy might give his evidence. The child astonished the court with the unusually clear conception he entertained about the necessity of truth on the stand.

"Now, Floyd," asked the judge,
"what do you have to tell the truth under oath?"

"Cause you'll be punished if you don't," answered the boy.

"What do you mean by punished?"
pursued the court. "How will you be punished?"

"Go to jail, I guess," said the youngster.

When he finally took the stand,
the judge himself questioned the boy.
Gradually he drew from him an account of the visit to the hotel.

WOLFE ASSURED OF
U. S. ATTORNEYSHIP
SAYS SEN. HUSTING

Announced Thursday That His Name Will Go in to the Attorney General at Once

SUCCEEDS JOHN AYLWARD

Local Man Pleased When News
Is Conveyed to His Room at the Hospital

Practical assurance that W. F.
Wolfe, leading lawyer of this city, will be the next United States district attorney for the western district of Wisconsin was seen Thursday in the statement by Senator Paul O. Husting at once. Senator Husting informed the United Press of his decision at his home in Mayville Thursday morning.

Mr. Wolfe will succeed John A. Aylward of Madison, who died Sunday at his home on the eve of the opening of federal court in La Crosse with the prosecution of the famous Robert Shields white slavery case.

The appointment as Aylward's successor has generally been conceded to the La Crosse man since the death of the Madison attorney. Mr. Wolfe is distinguished for his service to the democratic party in the state, none the less by his recent vigorous, although unsuccessful campaign for the United States senate. His name had been mentioned for the position before the appointment of Mr. Aylward.

Mr. Wolfe is confined in St. Francis hospital, recovering from a severe attack of appendicitis which necessitated operation late Sunday night. He was well, however, and was highly pleased at the news of Senator Husting's decision when it was conveyed to him at the hospital.
Mr. Wolfe is now out of danger, and is expected to leave the hospital within a fortnight.

W. F. Wolfe is 47 years old. He was born in Outagamie county on a farm. He attended school there and at the University of Wisconsin, and graduated in law at the university law school. He attended school with Judge T. H. Ryan and former Governor F. B. McGovern. He removed to La Crosse in 1894 to practice law.

PROBE OF PRODUCE
BOARDS IS BEGUN

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Investigation of the Elgin board of trade and of the Chicago butter and eggs board was begun by United States Attorney Clyde Thursday.

Clyde is scrutinizing the activities of the two boards to learn if they are violating injunctions issued in 1914, by Federal Judge K. M. Landis, forbidding speculation intended to boost prices of produce.

RAILROADS PASS BUCK
TO MINES IN BUREAU
PROBE OF COAL FAMINE

Railroads are "passing the buck" in the interesting game of "button, button, who's got the button?" which the La Crosse traffic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce is conducting anent the failure of coal deliveries to the city. George H. Crosby, freight traffic manager of the Burlington railroad, in a letter on Thursday, answering an inquiry of W. W. West, traffic commissioner, said that not car shortage but an effort to boost the price by the mines is the cause of the near-famine.

Crosby said that the Burlington is sending from 900 to 1,000 cars daily into the Illinois coal mining region.

"We're trying to smoke 'em out," said Mr. West Thursday, "but it's a hard job to place the blame. In the meantime, coal receipts in La Crosse are about 15 per cent of normal."

Mr. West showed a telegram to C. J. Rister, traffic manager of the C. C. & St. L. railway, a coal carrier with head offices at Cincinnati, in which an explanation of the shortage was asked. The wire declared that the Saline county, Ill., mines had received only ten cars this week up to Tuesday, although their normal average is 500 cars a day.

Assessment Committee's Valua-

COUNTRY PAYS INCREASE
Kindley Committee Trims City
Assessment But Boosts
the Rural Figures in County

The valuation of real and personal property in the city of La Crosse is placed at $104,091 less than the estimated city valuation of Tax Assessor James E. Keizer, although the combined sum of $106,528 is added to the assessor's figures for the valuation of property in the city of Onalaska, and all villages and townships in the county, by Chairman John Kindley and members of the county assessment committee, who presented their annual report to the board of supervisors Wednesday.

Mr. Keizer's estimated value of the city and county is $45,939,744.
The assessment committee fixes the value at $46,150,363, which is an increase of $210,619. The city's decrease will be borne by the county, and members of the board intimated that a contest would follow should an attempt be made to adopt the committee's report. Hot debating is expected when it comes up for final action Friday. Either Mr. Keizer's report or that of the committee, or a compromise table of valuation, will be used as the basis for the 1917 tax.

The committee figures were reached after a four-day junket, a great part of which time was spent in the country districts. Chairman Kindley's defense for decreasing the city valuation is that the figures of Mr. Keizer for merchandise in La Crosse stores was too high. It is said that the small increase in the county valuations was made when the committeemen discovered property in the town of Burns selling for large prices.

In a statement to the board contesting the high priced sales in his township, Supervisor Orrin Fletcher of Burns, declared that several recent land disposals in his district had been exorbitant and outrageous.

GROGERS ENLIST
IN FIGHT ON NEW BREAD ORDINANCE

They Would Have Full Two-pound Loaves Required as Well as One-pound Loaf

GOING AFTER MEASURE
Councilmen Disposed to Make Considerable Change in Bill Tinkering the Bread Law

La Crosse grocers have enlisted in the fight upon the Schulze ordinance, which is understood to have had the backing of local bakers in its intent to tinker with the existing bread regulations. Maintenance of the one-pound requirement, with the addition of a new rule that large loaves shall weigh two full pounds, is what the bakers will get out of the Schulze ordinance in place of the suggested twenty-six ounce size for all loaves, if the grocers have their way.
Moreover, the ordinance makes the additional new requirement that all loaves shall be wrapped.

That a determined fight against the Schulze ordinance will be made in the council Friday was indicated at committee meetings in the city hall Wednesday evening, when the matter was informally discussed.

"Now that monkeying with the bread ordinance has been started," said one alderman, "we might monkey to good purpose and fix a limit for the big loaves as well as the small. If we provide a definite weight for the bread we ought to make it two full pounds, and let the bakers charge what they have to according to the prices of material."

The grocers took a stand in the matter at a meeting of their association Tuesday night, when they passed a resolution declaring for standard one and two pound loaves.
The resolution will be presented to the council, and the grocers will ask the privilege of being heard on the floor in regard to it.

MONASTIR PLAIN REACHED AFTER GREAT HANDICAP

Bulgarian-Teutonic Forces Are Swept Back in Apparently Unresistable Onrush of Serbo-French

ADMISSION FROM SOFIA
Both Sofia and Berlin Declare Serbo-French Advance Has Caused Retirement of Macedonian Troops

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Monastir is almost within reach of General Sar-rail's indomitable Franco-Serbian forces after one of the most astonishing advances recorded in the great European war.

Battling against snow and rain over great natural mountain fortresses, the allied forces have now reached the plain of Monastir and Thursday official communiques from Paris—partially confirmed in the Berlin statement—indicate sweeping back of the Bulgarian-Teutonic line to a point within four miles of the city of Monastir itself.

Berlin's admission was a brief comment that "prepared new positions" in the Cerna sector were occupied.

The new positions achieved by the Franco-Serbian forces are the result of two separate successive flanking movements. The first involved the well-nigh impossible passage, under fire, of the mountains which guard the bend of the Cerna river, to the east of Monastir, and a thrust westward from these hard won heights.
It was successful. With practically all of the Cerna banks in their possession, the allies are now again striking out, forcing the Teutons back. This is the second abandonment of portions of the Monastir plain tacitly admitted by Berlin.

The Sofia official statement of Thursday likewise admits a "return" northward toward Tepawiza and Ci-gol.

The Bulgarian official statement from Sofia on Thursday admits a retreat northward toward Monastir in the face of violent attacks from the Franco-Serbian troops.

"Throughout the day our Monastir plain positions were fiercely bombarded," the statement declared.
"The enemy's violent attacks failed around the bend of the Cerna river.
We returned northwards towards Tepawiza and Cigal."

Four Miles from Monastir
PARIS, Nov. 16.—Franco-Russian troops have hurled back German defenders and are now a bare four miles south of Monastir.

This and the fact that throughout the Macedonia theater of war, the Germans have been steadily forced backward was announced in Thursday's official communique.

Berlin Admits Withdrawal
BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The Serbo-French flanking movement in Macedonia on the plains of Monastir, has compelled Bulgar-Teuton forces to withdraw, the war office said Wednesday.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 16.—William Sindell, 22, was killed when he attempted to rob the Security State bank in the residence district. Sindell entered the bank Thursday afternoon, put a revolver in the cashier's face and got $670. Then William Olli-ver, detective, who has been staying at the bank constantly since the same institution was held up and robbed March 8, opened fire on Sindell. Several shots were exchanged. Oliver escaped uninjured. Sindell was instantly killed, before leaving the bank.

Bank attaches identified the dead bandit as William L. F. Sindell, 22, who held them up at noon, March 8,
and got away with $1,567.

During the battle between Sindell and Detective Oliver, Sindell calmly puffed a half smoked cigar. In death the bandit's jaws tightly clutched the half burned cigar. Sindell fired twice and widely missed Oliver, who used three bullets. Two of these took effect.

Hebberd Would Give Money
Needed For Christmas Tree
For Relief Of Destitute

An argument against a proposed municipal Christmas tree, similar to that of three years ago, and favoring diverting of funds which would go to such a celebration to the Associated Charities for relief of destitute families of La Crosse, is contained in a communication received by the Editor of THE TRIBUNE from E. S. Hebberd, prominent in the Associated Charities and an advocate three years ago of the municipal celebration.

The letter follows:

"Nov. 16, 1916.

"To the Editor:

"It is being proposed that La Crosse again indulge in a Municipal Christmas tree. I cannot understand how anyone who remembers our former experience with a Municipal Christmas tree can wish to have it repeated. Why cannot we profit by our own experience? In my humble judgment real experience ought to outweigh all the glowing accounts which come to us of what was done somewhere else.

"I was an enthusiastic advocate of the Municipal Christmas tree, and no one regretted more than I, the flat and dismal failure which it proved to be. That failure was not due to lack of funds or effort.
Plenty of money was subscribed and those in charge worked hard and conscientiously to make it a success. The newspapers did their full share in the way of free advertising.

"The idea simply did not take. The crowd was there, but as far as I could see, took no part in the exercises. They were simply spectators and not very comfortable ones at that. The children, who had been trained for the occasion, sang nicely but their voices were not strong enough to be heard by the most of the crowd. The tree was allowed to remain standing in solemn grandeur during the holiday week and as far as I could see, attracted no further attention.

"How, much better it would be, and how much more conducive to the real spirit of Christmas, to put the money and effort into some substantial service. With abnormally high prices for all the necessities of life, there will be suffering in La Crosse this winter. Little children will cry for food and warmth. In their weakened condition they will succumb, to every infection—diphtheria, infantile paralysis and all the dreadful list. We will get our punishment if we neglect to prepare to meet this situation. In the Associated Charities, we have an agency fully competent to handle it sanely and effectively, if only it have the necessary money. We ought to raise a fund of $1,000 for relief. Four years ago, one bank alone donated a similar sum for the same purpose.
Cannot we, all the people of La Crosse, do as well?

"Yours earnestly,

"E. S. HEBBERD."

ADMINISTRATION IS READY FOR FIGHT FOR ADAMSON LAW

Government May Attack Roads if Employees Strike for Interfering with Interstate Traffic

LAW IS ONLY TEMPORARY

For This Reason, Officials Claim, Efforts by Railroads to Enjoin Its Operation Will Be Failure

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The administration is ready to start an aggressive fight in behalf of the Adamson law, the object of concerted attack by most of the big railroads of the country, it is made clear. The belief was expressed by high officials the efforts to enjoin the operation of the law would fail.

It was suggested that the government might not confine its efforts to defensive tactics, if the hope of the railroads to prevent operation of the law should appear likely of realization.

If the railroads tie up the enforcement of the Adamson act, the railroad workers are expected to strike. It is the view of some of the president's advisors that the courts would hold the railroads responsible for interference with interstate commerce in such case, and would compel them to abide by the provisions of the act.

This belief is strengthened by the administration's claim that the Adamson law primarily is a measure designed to obtain a thorough and scientific investigation of facts on which to base final legislation. It is to be effective only six months, during the time of the investigation of the application of the eight-hour day. It can be extended only thirty days at the request of the special commission appointed under it.

By reason of the very nature of the act, administration men are convinced efforts to enjoin its operation will fail.

On the other hand, it is thought, it may be possible to enjoin "interference," by the railroads with interstate traffic, as labor leaders were enjoined in the famous Pullman strike of twenty years ago.

It appeared likely the government would file a demurrer, claiming the Adamson law constitutional in answer to the railroads' plea for an injunction restraining its enforcement. This would result in a straightaway fight on the constitutionality of the act and would serve more quickly to bring the case before the supreme court.

THE BEST PROOF

Given by a La Crosse Citizen
Doan's Kidney Pills were used— they brought benefit.

The story was told to La Crosse residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the result lasting. The testimony is home testimony— The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by La Crosse residents.

C. J. Miller, 607 N. Tenth St., La Crosse, says: "A persistent dull ache through my back, made me as weak as a child. My whole body ached and I had rheumatic pains. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Erhart's Drug Store, brought me fine relief, in fact, they gave better results than any other kidney medicine I had ever tried."

A PERMANENT CURE

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER Mr. Miller said: "I am glad to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have given me a permanent cure."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy— get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Miller has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

LA CROSSE AGAIN TO DIG UP FOR STATE ROAD AID

If Present Road Program Goes Through State Aid Will Be Over $18,000 Shy

Tax payers of La Crosse county will again be forced to dig down in their pockets to help in making up another large deficit in the state aid highway fund for 1917, if the program for building state roads throughout the county as mapped out in a series of petitions to the county board of supervisors on Wednesday is carried through. It will pass, in all probability.

The sum of $30,600 state aid is asked for La Crosse county roads next year. Under the Wisconsin state aid law, the township, county and state stand equal shares of the expense of building and repaving highways in the state system. The state has always stood its part of the road cost, except under the administration of Governor E. L. Philip. Last year it was cut down sixteen thousand dollars.

The amount available for La Crosse county in 1917, according to a statement received by County Clerk Bert A. Jolivette from the Wisconsin highway commission is $12,009.58. This leaves a balance of $18,590.42 to be borne by county tax payers. The communication to the clerk notifies him there is no possibility of a larger sum being available unless the legislature appropriates an additional amount when it convenes next spring.

Individual sums asked for by all the townships and one village in the county follow:

Bangor, $2,300; Barre, $1,250; Burns, $4,000; Campbell, $2,500; Farmington, $4,950; Greenfield, $2,050; Hamilton, $3,350; Holland, $1,800; Onalaska, $3,000; Shelby, $2,000; Washington, $400; West Salem, $1,000.

La Crosse county will indulge for the first time in the federal highway fund, if the board of supervisors, adopts a resolution of Chairman Richard W. Davis asking for an appropriation of $15,000. The resolution states that this sum is to be used in building county roads providing the state of Wisconsin, which under the new law, is a participant in the cost, provides a like sum, and the money is forthcoming from the government. If appropriated the money will be used for highways leading to the city of Sparta, and on the trunk roads from La Crosse to Milwaukee.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Dear Brayton,
Editor and Publisher, La Crosse TRIBUNE.

Dear Sir:
In your editorial of November 6, 1916, you make certain statements which have a tendency to "belittle the Woodmen of Viroqua Camp."

The camp requests that you retract those statements as the facts of the supper are as follows:

On Oct. 6, the supper was arranged and planned for and a committee appointed to take charge of the affair. On Oct. 10, the invitation cards were mailed, and in none of their affairs did the point you mention have a thing to say, and the crowd at the Woodman hall was over two hundred and fifty which was more than the community expected.

Respectfully,
H. C. De Garmo, clerk.

ENGLISH SUPPORT WHOLEHEARTED FOR FOOD DICTATORSHIP

Only Criticisms Are That Plan Announced Is Insufficiently Sweeping and That It Is Late

PREDICTS FOOD TICKETS

Runciman Declares Government Will Issue at Any Time It Chooses Food Regulations

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Nov. 16.—England is a unit of support of the government's food dictatorship plan. Not a newspaper nor an individual, apparently, in the whole United Kingdom voiced criticism of the plans announced in parliament Wednesday by Walter Runciman contemplating conservation of England's food supply. The only criticisms heard were that the governmental control had been over-long delayed, and the preliminary plans, as announced, were insufficiently sweeping or drastic.

It is known, however, that Runciman's action was preliminary and that he did not reveal all the steps of control which the government has determined upon. The food dictatorship, it was said, may eventually outdo even the thoroughness of the German system.

The British people are fully prepared for the sacrifices which it is realized will be consequent upon operation of the new plan. The public is all the more willing to submit to the hardships of a controlled food supply in view of thrilling stories of British army heroism now reaching here.

It was accepted here that the first activities of the new dictatorship would have to do with limitation on the use of sugar in costly confectionery, of indiscriminate feeding to animals of vegetables suitable for human consumption and of wasteful use of white flour and potatoes.

Retail food prices, according to semi-official statistics available Thursday, show that in a year there has been an increase of about 27 percent. Prices now are about 78 percent higher than they were prior to the war. But on such staples as eggs, potatoes, fish and sugar, the prices have nearly doubled.

Runciman announced that the government would assume the power to institute food tickets at any time it chooses.

He said orders were to be issued this week covering the points he had mentioned in his speech, which, he added, were only the first steps. The premier, he explained, will announce the name of a food controller later, meanwhile the board of trade will execute the new powers of control over food prices, handing these powers over to the new government official on a day's notice.

As one of the first steps toward meeting the present situation, Runciman announced the government will limit milk prices.

Pure Flour Barred
Runciman announced that flour of more than 70 percent pure grain has been prohibited. The pure white product, he said, was no longer to be milled. The same restrictions as to manufactured product applies to imported flour.

Runciman declared the luxurious use of sugar by the people of England must be stopped. Measures are also imminent to prevent undue profits from being realized on the sale of potatoes, he said.

Runciman recommended that negroes be used in unloading British ships at French ports instead of soldiers.

The Pessimists.

If the pessimists of the past had been right, men would still be living in caves and trying to get their meals with clubs and flint arrows. And evidently they died without publicly confessing their mistakes for their pessimistic children continue to prophesy dismally that everything that is surely going to be cannot possibly come to pass. They seem to be born with the habit and cannot get over it.—Detroit Free Press.

Weather Reform.

In this best of worlds all things are, of course, arranged for the very best; but as a hard-worked gardener, wearied with much watering of flowers, remarked one evening, he could not understand why all the rain that had to fall could not be made to come at night. "It would save us gardeners a world of trouble," he added plaintively, "and be much usefuleer to the flowers and things."

No Such Animal.

"What I propose," says the man who gets very much in earnest, "is a political organization that will be free from all selfish interest, laboring only for the highest ideals—" "I know," interrupted the rude person. "You're going to start one of those sea-serpent parties." "Why do you refer to it as a sea-serpent party?" "Because there ain't no such animal."

Unwritten Poetry.

Many people suppose that poetry is something to be found only in books, contained in lines of ten syllables with like endings; but wherever there is a sense of beauty, or power, or harmony, as in the motion of a wave of the sea, in the growth of a flower that "spreads its sweet leaves to the air, and dedicates its beauty to the sun"—there is poetry in its birth.—Hazlitt.

INJUSTICE CORRECTED

In a recent number of The Tribune there appeared an editorial in which Senator J. Henry Bennett and Colonel O. G. Munson, of Viroqua, were criticized for what then appeared an attempt to capitalize the popularity of Senator La Follette for their own political ends. In brief the statement was as follows:

That following the announcement of Senator La Follette's pending meeting at Viroqua Messrs. Bennett and Munson, for political purposes, organized a competing attraction in the form of a Woodmen dinner; that a great crowd came to the La Follette meeting, that the dinner was neglected, and that when these circumstances developed Senator Bennett and Colonel Munson joined the throngs at the hotel, and as it were, intruded themselves upon the stage group at the La Follette meeting, apparently for the purpose of identifying themselves with the gathering for political effects.

The editorial was based upon what appeared at the time to have been thoroughly verified facts, but it is now confirmed that in almost every essential particular the story was untrue, and therefore we hasten to correct it.

From Mr. G. C. De Garmo, clerk of Camp No. 1991, M. W. A., of Viroqua, we have a letter which shows that the Woodmen dinner was planned and the invitations issued long before the La Follette date was set, and that neither Senator Bennett nor Colonel Munson was a party to it.

Further reliable information is to the effect that Senator Bennett attended the La Follette meeting at the express request of County Chairman D. O. Mahoney, although he was billed for a political speech elsewhere upon that evening. Senator Bennett in his speeches had been endorsing Senator La Follette with the rest of the republican ticket, and therefore his appearance at the meeting was not inconsistent with his conduct throughout the campaign. Insofar as his name was drawn into the matter, Colonel Munson, as a political associate of Senator Bennett, may be placed upon the same footing.

We do not credit—or shall we say accuse—Senator Bennett with any genuine enthusiasm for Senator La Follette. But so altogether apparent has it become that The Tribune was substantially misinformed and that its former editorial unjustly placed Senator Bennett in a false position, that this newspaper desires to make complete retraction and to place Senator Bennett, in the minds of its readers, in the exact position he enjoyed prior to the publication of the story. This we do from a sense of honor and of justice. It requires courage in a newspaper to attack the acts of public men, but no newspaper is truly courageous that hesitates to make reparation for a wrong. We disagree with Senator Bennett, but we bear him no malice; probably we shall continue to disagree with him, but we shall insist upon dealing justly with him.

THE SERVICE OF "BILLY" WOLFE

President Wilson did not carry Wisconsin but despite considerable democratic defection due to the injection of a racial issue, he polled twenty thousand more votes in this state than he secured four years ago. But for the infusion of this extraneous quarrel there is little doubt that he would have won the electoral vote of the Badger State.

To the president's campaign in Wisconsin no factor contributed more abundantly than the senatorial canvass of William F. Wolfe, who accepted that forlorn hope, not with the conviction that he might win, but with the deliberate purpose to throw the influence of his name and his voice into the scale against that racial reaction that alone stood between his chief and success. His was a fearless championship, in which he exposed the naked truth before men whose emotions were carrying them to an unreasoning bitterness, and into the contest he put his whole heart and intelligence.

Now that a vacancy exists in the office of the federal district attorneyship, a position which Mr. Wolfe is eminently qualified to fill, it would seem the straight and simple course of justice to confer that honor upon him. That his splendid and self-sacrificing service to the party is understood and appreciated we can not doubt, and in that event William F. Wolfe's appointment will be automatic.

OPPORTUNISM STATESMANSHIP

We have heard a good deal in the campaign just finished about "political opportunism"—a fine phrase with which to damn a rival. What does it mean?

A "political opportunist" must be one who seeks to interpret the popular desire and to measure himself to that standard, be it concerning words or deeds.

If this were a monarchy, in which the will of the people were not supposed to be law, a "political opportunist" might be a menace to the traditions and principles of the government.

But this is a republic, in which the will of the majority is by tradition the pilot of affairs. Reduced to its value in terms of democracy, "political opportunism" is adherence to strict principle. It is statesmanship—unless we are to concede that republican government is wrong in principle.

THE SEARCHLIGHT

LOADING BOATS BY PIPES

The rich oil fields in the vicinity of Tuxpan, Mexico, have no harbor facilities and a novel scheme for filling the oil boats has been proven practical. Long pipe lines are run out into the water, with flexible rubber ends with nipples attached to them. Large buoys indicate the position of these in the water. A boat riding at anchor picks up a buoy with hose attached which signals the pumping plant to turn on the oil. It is pumped into the holds of the boats at the rate of 700 barrels an hour. The pipes extend out into the water for more than a mile.

POLISH LEADER ATTACKS GERMAN PROCLAMATION

PETROGRAD, Nov. 16.—Germany's proclamation re-establishing a Polish kingdom was denounced Wednesday by Polish Leader Garszewicz who charged the purpose was to "distort the true will of the Polish people."

"The action was taken to justify in the eyes of the world a revolting method of recruiting," said Leader Garszewicz, in a lengthy statement. "It was also taken to prevent a Russian-Polish conflict."

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Out of the Mouths of Kids
Robbie's first experience of a concert hall was a great mammoth entertainment in aid of a patriotic fund. The most celebrated soprano of the day was engaged in singing to the accompaniment of a famous orchestra when Robbie and family arrived.

The small boy at once became interested in the gesticulations of the conductor.
"Mother, why is that man shaking his stick at the lady?" he asked.
"Hush, dear; he is not shaking his stick at her."
But Robbie was not convinced.
"Then what is she screaming for?"

He Was Brave
Jem Johnson, a colored youth, was one of the survivors of the Lusitania disaster and was mightily affected by the experience, so much so, in fact, that his continual brooding caused him to indulge freely in alcoholic beverages.

This particular evening, his grief trifled, he gave way to his medicine and fell asleep with his head in a horse trough. Presently a copper strolled along and poked him.
"Never mind me," sobbed the convivial youth, "save the women and children."

Inevitable
Up the street came the fire engines, with many a clang and clatter. From another direction came the fire escape. Soon the hoses were busy and the crowd swelled so quickly that the young reporter from the big daily could get nowhere near the burning house.

But he was undismayed. With much agility he climbed a lamp post and surveyed the scene. A minute later he felt a tug at his ankle, and looking down, met the fierce glare of a special constable.
"Now, then, down you come, young man!"

"Oh, that's all right! I'm a reporter and I've got to do a description of the fire!"
"Nonsense—nonsense! Down you come! You can read all about the fire in the papers tomorrow!"

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Nixsah)

PARA
Para is the great commercial city of northern Brazil, the gate to the tangled jungles of the upper Amazon. The doorway through which the Brazilian steps on his way to North America or to Europe. Here are lines of shipping leading up and down the coast, trans-Atlantic companies sending their great boats back and forth to Lisbon and Liverpool, and most interesting of all here is the lower terminal of that most romantic line of vessels which plies through the hot damp land of mystery, up the Amazon all the way to the Bolivian frontier.

Para is exotically beautiful, all grown up green with palm and flowering shrub, streets lined with trees, dense forest crowding hard upon the one hand and the river on the other. Through the greenery winks the white of marble, and the soft gray of granite buildings. Statuary, carved columns, arches and arcades are everywhere; the Latin-American taste for the Greek element in architecture and sculpture has run riot. There are dozens of little public squares and not a few larger ones scattered through the city, each with its statue of some famous man in the center, and attendant symbolic figures kneeling or crouching at the foot. Always statue and square are veiled in the easy tropic growth of greenery.

Of course, Para has its other side, its squalid quarter, where sanitation is more needed than statuary, but the town has a much better reputation now for hygienic conditions than the one it suffered from only a few years ago. Energetic measures to clean up on the American plan have been taken, and the city is making marked progress toward healthfulness as a result. In this hot moist climate nature permits of no carelessness. The sun and mist that flood every plant with an exuberance of growing vitality have the opposite effect on the visitor from the north.

Yet Para's climate is singularly agreeable to anyone who likes warm equable weather. The days drag so much alike that each seems like some lazy reflection of its predecessor. The only variation in the monotony comes in the rainy season when the landscape may be swathed in sheets of falling water for six or eight hours at a time.

LA CROSSE ASTONISHED BY SIMPLE MIXTURE

Appleby flushed and wished that Vera had been a bit more delicate in her remark and less hasty in her departure. He liked Mrs. Mainwaring and had liked her for years. She was a keen observer and a decidedly well-read woman, who thought deeply upon what she read and often reached original and amusing conclusions. She was a gentlewoman and the trouble she had suffered had broadened her and deepened her sympathies, refining her innate sweetness and goodness. Appleby watched her as she descended the wide staircase, with the high stained glass window on the landing behind her, the heavily carved mahogany hand-rail on which her soft white hand rested lightly, and realized that she would not be an unworthy mistress of the beautiful old place, and of the forty millions. Angriely he put the forty millions out of his mind, telling himself that he knew she liked him as he liked her. They were both middle-aged, a bit lonely and ready to settle down, not asking or expecting love, preferring indeed, quiet friendship and congenial companionship. He walked to the foot of the stairs and waited for her. He had been a fool not to have thought of her before in that way.

"You look tired," said he gently, as she drew near.
"I am," she replied, "tired and sad. Miss Appleby was very dear to me."
"And you to her," declared Appleby warmly.
"I think so, too," agreed Mrs. Mainwaring with charming simplicity. "I was with her for twenty years."

The unbidden tears showed a moment in her soft gray eyes and she wiped them away frankly with no attempt to apologize for them or to laugh her emotion aside. "Two old women," said she. "Now she's gone and I am alone."

Appleby felt the sudden tears in his own eyes. Of all the household, this woman alone grieved wholeheartedly, with not a thought of the forty millions. "So am I," said Appleby, "old and gray and tired and alone. My wives and my children married and in homes of their own."

"As one grows old, the heart grows so easily satisfied," said she. "But never with loneliness," protested Appleby. "Then, I think, more than ever, a man wants a woman to go with him, hand in hand, to meet the shadows."

"They are coming so close," said Mrs. Mainwaring softly.
"And coming closer every day," added Appleby, just as softly, gently laying a hand on hers as it rested still on the banisters. "Mrs. Mainwaring, will you marry me? I have admired you for years. We are congenial. We two, I think, are the only ones who really mourn for my aunt. We have much in common. You have enough money to be independent and so have I. We would be happy together, I know."

Mrs. Mainwaring nodded gravely, and held out her hand, looking him steadily in the eyes. "I think we would," she agreed simply. "But we must be honest with each other. Ten years ago I made Miss Appleby promise not to leave me anything, except a few old keepsakes, of no earthly value to any one save to her and to me. I had put by a little, enough to be independent, and I wanted no question of money to come between us. It never did. We loved each other. You must know this and not court me with any expectations."

Her eyes twinkled irresistibly and Appleby knew he wanted her, money or no money. A sense of humor in a wife is compensation for a hundred millions.
"Woman," said he gently, "I would rather go with you to meet the shadows than with any one else I know."
"But why," she asked smiling, "as I am not to receive the forty millions?"
"I do not know," said Appleby frankly, wanting her the more she hesitated. "But I do want you." He put his arm around her shoulders and drawing her to him raised her hand to his lips. "It may be because a woman who has a sense of humor, can never, please God, become a feminist."

CHAPTER XXIII Safety First for Nelly

It was the last night, the last night! They sat side by side on the moose-block in the cozy darkness of the porte-cochere. Nelly felt that her heart was not breaking, but simply stopping, giving out with longing as was her mind, growing weak as were her wobbly knees. The sheer fear of her cowardice sapped all her strength. She wanted him, but she dared not, could not, throw aside her world and take him—dared not, could not, enter his world. It was very dark. The moon would not rise until late and the sky was heavily overcast. She could feel him sitting beside her, and could catch an outline of his handsome head if she glanced at him, which she seldom did, for always he was looking straight at her and she could not meet his eyes, even in the shadows of the night.

"Yes," said he grimly, "we strike day after tomorrow. I have left this place and shall be on the committee to manage the strike. They elected me today." His voice was full of unconscious pride and he paused to give her time to congratulate him because of the honor, but she only nodded.

NEWS NOTES—MILWAUKEE

"The Devil's Double," in which William S. Hart will be seen shortly, is the story of the regeneration of "Bowie" Blake, ex-outlaw, faro-dealer and man-killer through the strange influences that bring him into contact with a beautiful and spiritual woman. Van Dyke Tarleton, a painter of genius, becomes broken in health through overwork upon his masterpiece, "Lucifer, Son of the Morning." His beautiful wife is his inspiration for all the high qualities in his work, but he is unable to find any model with a face wicked enough to pose for Lucifer. He is ordered to the desert of Arizona by his physician, and in Tophet, one of the worst towns of the border meets "Bowie" Blake, the bad man, who typifies for him the exact reproduction of Lucifer in the flesh. He tries to get Blake to pose for him, but is repulsed. He then urges his wife to win the gambler's consent, and after a dramatic meeting, Blake agrees to pose to please the woman who had tamed his savage spirit by her gentle and idealistic nature. This leads to one of the strangest complications ever pictured on the screen, and Mr. Hart handles the unusual demands made upon his art with satisfying skill.

W. S. Hart in "The Devil's Double." Mr. Hart is here seen in his best loved character, the western bad man. In roles such as this he has won much fame.

A Villain's Life
Ho, fans! The truth is out. Stuart Holmes, right honorable commander-in-chief of all the villainous cohorts of the screen, confided, in a biographical moment last week, that he was born in Milwaukee. The William Fox villain of the baleful eyes, denies most strenuously that he was born with his famous moustachios. Mr. Holmes is a graduate of the Chicago School of Design. He had the lead in decorating the interior of the Pittsburgh railroad station, wreaked vengeance on the pillars of the Chicago postoffice and did his best to help make the Shiloh battle-field monument a success.

"Daughter of The Gods"
All super-movies are commonly called "wonderful" and "marvelous." But not by most play reviewers, who commonly take quite an opposite view. One of the best in New York says of Annette Kellerman's million-dollar "Daughter of the Gods": "It is pitiful that a small percentage of this expenditure should not have been used to employ someone with dramatic sense to write a play and tell movie directors how to get dramatic results with the wonderful material at their disposal."

Tully Marshall, gifted actor, who once played a season of stock, is to appear with Geraldine Farrar in her "Joan of Arc."

to her when life ended tonight? She wondered that he could talk of such things and decided that he did not care as she cared. She told herself that she was glad it was so and suffered anguish at the thought that perhaps he didn't. He mistook her silence for opposition and hastened to defend himself and his friends.

"We have to have justice, somehow. The law is all for the rich man, bought up juries—"

"I know, that is why I hate the poor man so," blazed Nelly. "They allow themselves to be bought."

"Eh?" asked Reuben.

"The rich man's money would be powerless if it wasn't for the poor man's greed," said Nelly hotly.

Reuben preferred to continue and leave that point undisputed. "The rich are a law unto themselves. Now, look at your cousin, living with a man who isn't her husband and feeling no shame."

"Who?" gasped Nelly.

"Why, that Miss Peters, the one who goes with Mr. Lane."

"Oh, she's married, she and Tommy," explained Nelly hastily. "She just calls herself by her maiden name."

"Why?"
"To avoid confusion, I think," said Nelly doubtfully. "You see if she is always called Miss Brown, she will never become confused as to what her last name is after she has been divorced a number of times. Peters is her grandmother's name and she has decided to begin with her father's."

"Oh!" said Reuben.

For a moment he was silent, then he broke forth again at the old wound: "You don't like me because I have no money."

"It is not so," cried Nelly, the hot tears in her eyes. "Reuben, I do like you."

"You are ashamed of me."

In the dark Nelly blushed at the justice of his accusation. "I am not, I am not," she cried earnestly, to convince herself.

REVIEW OF RUSSIAN TROOPS

PARIS, France.—The review of Russian troops at the Mailly camp recently by the Russian General Gillsky and Prince Peter of Montenegro presented some features peculiar to Russia. The troops were under the command of General Marchouky who, together with the French general in command of the regiment that General Gillsky gave Prince Peter. The troops marched past in companies, in double ranks, to the music of a military band, the colonels and other officers, with the flag bearers, marching at their sides. The bearing of the troops was so excellent that General Gillsky gave permission for one battalion to parade with fixed bayonets, which is equivalent to an honorable mention. At the close of the review the troops returned to their quarters and the Russian popes in long blue robes, wearing the cross of Saint George on long ribbons, rode away on their white horses.

When a man talks of himself he's apt to be more eloquent than interesting.

N. P. APPLIES FOR INJUNCTION ON THE ADAMSON MEASURE

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 16.—The Northern Pacific intends to introduce in every federal district court governing territory through which it runs, suits to test the Adamson law. This was evidenced Thursday when the road applied in the local federal district court for an injunction to restrain officials of this federal district from enforcing the Adamson law. Similar papers were filed in the Minneapolis district federal court Wednesday. The Great Northern and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul will file similar suits here, it is said. Infringement upon amendment No. 5, of the federal constitution is alleged.

Patience.
Patience is the courage of the conqueror, the strength of man against destiny—of the one against the world, and of the soul against matter.—Therefore it is the courage of the gospel; and its importance, in a social view, and to races and institutions, cannot be too earnestly inculcated.—Bulwer.

ENGLAND MAY BE CALLED TO STAND FOR ALLEGATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—It was indicated at the state department on Thursday that the British government might be asked for a bill of particulars regarding the allegation in Viscount Grey's blackist note, that the United States government has not taken "adequate action" to suppress breaches of neutrality in this country.

Secretary Lansing, asked if this would be done, replied, "possibly" but other state department officials took the attitude that the government should not let the statement by Grey go unchallenged.

Gender of Ships.
It is a well-known fact that ships are almost invariably referred to as being of the feminine gender. Now and then a ship is called "it," but with rare exceptions the reference is "she" or "her." Just why this is so it would be difficult to tell—the custom is so ancient.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Warning that the situation in England had reached the point where the government "may be compelled to take artificial means to limit the consumption of food," was sounded in the house of commons Wednesday by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

As one of the first steps toward meeting the present situation, Runciman announced the government will limit prices.

TWO WEALTHY MEN KILLED ON STREETS

WYANDOTTE, Mich., Nov. 16.—Armed deputies surrounded the Wyandotte city jail Thursday, guarding the life of Samuel Gianola, an Italian, arrested on suspicion of complicity in the murder of Harry Paul, 28, and Morris Harris, 22, shot down from ambush in the streets of the city Wednesday night.

Three hundred enraged citizens stormed the jail at midnight, attempting to lynch the prisoner, but were driven off after a sharp struggle with police.

Police have been unable to learn the motive for the slaying of Paul and Harris. Both men were wealthy, being associated in the organization of the Wyandotte Fruit company.

Paul's body was found on Oak street, riddled with bullets. A few yards up the street, Harris was found lifeless. A repeating rifle was found near the murdered man.

Odd Terms.

The terms, "calf week," "cow week" and "bull week" are applied in many of England's great industrial centers to the three weeks before the Christmas holiday week. In "calf week" the men work time and a third, in "cow week" time and two-thirds, and in "bull week" double time, in order to make up for loss of output caused by the Christmas holidays.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with this simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff and dirt and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. Just use a teaspoonful of canthox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing thoroughly with clean water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.

AUTO HITS CAR—3 HURT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 16.—Three men were injured here Thursday when an automobile truck in which they were riding collided with a street car. The truck was demolished.

Arethusa.

The name Arethusa is from the Greek. It is the name of various springs in ancient Greece, especially of one in the island of Ortygia in the harbor of Syracuse. With it was connected the legend that Arethusa, a nymph of Elis, while bathing in the Alpheus, was pursued by her lover, the river-god, and fled from him to Artygen, whither he followed undersea and overtook her.

An officer in charge of a company of infantry on the ranges at —, wishing to time the "rapid firing," turned to the company and asked if anyone had a watch with a second hand. There was no answer for a few moments, when one of the "last batch" remarked: "Please, sir, I have a second-hand one."

UNIONS IN JAPAN FURUSETH PLAN TO FIGHT THE "PERIL"

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—Organization of Japanese workmen in their own country to secure better wage and general living conditions is the solution of the "yellow peril" favored by the American Federation of Labor, Andrew Furuseth, head of the Seamen's union, said Thursday. "We are not going to permit admission of Japanese or other Orientals into the American Federation of Labor," Furuseth said. "It would be a wedge for the entrance into this country of thousands of Orientals as laborers. If an attempt is made to admit them to the federation, it will bring on a great fight."

It is planned instead, Furuseth said, to organize the Japanese, especially in their own country—give them labor unions and the power of organization generally. This plan, it is believed, will keep them out of this country, by giving them better living conditions at home.

"I am opposed to the admission of any of these laborers," stated Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation. All hats half price, including patterns, Friday and Saturday only. Mrs. T. J. McDonough, 1130 Vine.

TWO NARROW ESCAPES BY AUTOISTS ON TRACK

BELOIT, Wis., Nov. 16.—Two Beloit autoists had narrow escapes from death here when their cars collided with switch engines.

Ross Bryden, Shirlan, drove his car onto the tracks at a crossing and was forced to jump when his engine died. A switch engine plowed through the car a few seconds later. The other accident happened when Carl Johnson of Manchester started to drive across railroad tracks. His engine failed him and he was forced to leave his car in the path of a switch engine which hurled it from the tracks. Flammen say both motorists failed to heed "Stop" warnings.

DAVIS TROUBLES OVERSHADOW CASE OF THE TICHENORS

Catcher Is Named as Co-respondent in Divorce Case and His Family Ruction Is Aired

How Mrs. Roy Davis stood in the yard of Mrs. Gertrude Tichenor's home at 1911 Wood street on the night of August 1, and pleaded, not to say dared her spouse to come out, and how all the neighbors gathered around, and the police came, and numerous other interesting details overshadowed that fact that Mrs. Tichenor is suing her husband for divorce in circuit court on Thursday morning. Roy Davis is named as co-respondent in a cross-bill filed by Robert Tichenor, the husband, and the morning session of the court was taken up with discussion of the incident of August 1.

The defendant husband charges his wife with infidelity, and the Davis family trouble, aired recently in county court, were the basis of his efforts to prove his case.

The case was the court debut of O. J. Swennes, and Warren J. Foster, his companion in the office of J. E. Higbee, was associated with him in the defense. Minors were sent from the court by Judge E. C. Higbee before the testimony was opened.

Neighbors of Mrs. Tichenor testified as to the events of the momentous night when the wife of the well-known semi-pro catcher had followed him to the home of her rival, events which the husband asserts prove guilt on the part of his wife, but which Mrs. Tichenor's counsel declared only showed that Mrs. Davis was unreasonably jealous. Arthur Ashland, patrolman, told of his visit to the house on the night to send the crowd away, and of engineering an unsuccessful attempt to reconcile Davis and his wife.

SOCIETY

LAW-WILLIAMS

Last night at 7:45, at the home of her brother-in-law, William F. Hurlen, 120 South Thirteenth street, Miss Ida May Williams was married to Mr. David Sidney Law, son of Mrs. David Law of 435 South Fourth street. Father Johnson of Christ church performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Edward A. Williams of New York city. Mr. Webster Russell was the best man.

Shortly after 7:30 o'clock, Margaret Esch and Mary Finch, a niece of the groom, came down the stairway and stretched white ribbons into the living room where the ceremony took place. They were followed by little Ellen Hurlen, niece of the bride, who bore the ring. After her came the flower girl, Gretchen Langenbach, who immediately preceded the bride.

Miss Williams entered on the arm of her father. She was dressed in a gown of soft taffeta with trimmings of silver and rose point lace, and her long veil was arranged over her hair in cap form. She wore no train. At the altar she was met by the groom and his attendant.

The fireplace at the end of the living room had been converted into an exquisitely suitable place for performing the ceremony. The shelf above was banked with small white chrysanthemums outlined by the lights concealed behind them. The fireplace opening was filled with yellow varieties of the same flower and tall vases of huge pink chrysanthemums on either side completed the effect. The bride and groom knelt upon two white satin cushions placed between the vases of flowers. The ring service was used by Father Johnson in performing the ceremony.

At 8:30 a large wedding reception was held. Mesdames Derr and Kaeppler alternated with Mesdames Elliott and McGuigan in taking charge of the dining room where white chrysanthemums and smilax were used to carry out an effective color scheme. The dining table was centered by a particularly beautiful wedding cake.

Those who assisted in the serving were the Misses Anita Finch, Flora Gosnell, Lucille Houthmacher, Dora Hirschheimer, Esther Wager, Doris Wager, Marie Esch and Marjorie Nelson.

Mr. Schafer was in charge of the decorations and the catering was done by a St. Paul firm, Wilbur Holcomb, and his orchestra furnished the music during the evening and several vocal numbers were rendered.

Mr. and Mrs. Law left for Chicago on their wedding trip. The bride's traveling suit was of dark blue broadcloth with a lighter blue hat. After December 1, Mr. and Mrs. Law will be at home to their friends at 1224 State street.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. Williams of New York, father of the bride; Mrs. H. McGuigan of Pittsburgh; Mrs. H. G. Fertig and Mrs. Charles Holstrom, both of Minneapolis.

MOTHERS' CIRCLE

The Mothers' Circle of the Presbyterian church met last evening as usual in the church parlors. A large number was in attendance and a gratifying sum realized when all the work on hand had been disposed of.

RATHBURN-MERWIN

Miss Nellie Merwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Merwin, 317 South Seventh street, and Mr. John Rathburn, also of this city, were united in marriage at 7 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's church, the Rev. Dr. Robert B. Condon, performing the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Arthur McMann and Mrs. Arthur McMann acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast breakfast was

FOR MISS MAJOR

This afternoon Miss Rose Hickisch, 820 South Eighth street, entertained about sixteen young ladies in honor of Miss Isabelle Major, who is to be married the latter part of this month. Yellow chrysanthemums made an attractive decoration in the dining room where luncheon was served.

Miss Major has been the guest of honor at several delightful parties during the past week. Mrs. Burkhardt and the Misses Frankson and Bauman entertained for her and on Tuesday evening Mrs. A. W. Johnson, 708 West avenue south, was hostess at a shower for her, at which covers were laid for fourteen.

W. C. O. F.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters took place Tuesday evening in the Knights of Pythias hall. Progressive cinch was the entertainment of the evening. The head prizes were won by Mesdames O. D. Marco and George T. Morelli. Mesdames M. Mann and M. Smishek were the recipients of the consolation favors.

While the card game progressed, a trio consisting of the Misses Catherine Schneider, F. Gleason and L. Lasser furnished several vocal numbers.

The hostesses were Mesdames B. Gleason, W. Woods, Henry Liesenfeld, J. Larkin, Paul Mahoney and E. N. Schomers.

Y. W. C. A. BOARD MEETING

The principal feature of the regular monthly Y. W. C. A. board meeting which took place last night was the report of Mrs. A. Chubb on the Central Field Conference held in Chicago on Thursday and Friday of last week.

The reports of the secretary showed that the home had been redecorated and repaired and is now ready for the organization of committees and clubs. Among the new features, it is hoped, will be a club of the business women of the city.

The gymnasium classes are filling up rapidly. Special emphasis this year will be laid upon social work of all kinds. To promote a spirit of good friendship, there will be one large social meeting every month aside from other incidental meetings.

There will be an extra service next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at which Mrs. Henry Stevens of Hastings, Minneapolis, former member of the Y. W. C. A. board here will speak.

HENNEPIN RECOUNT AWAITED WITH 302 LEAD FOR HUGHES

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 16.—Officially counted returns from Lac Qui Parle county this afternoon boosted the Hughes lead in Minnesota to 302. Returns have been officially counted in 57 of the eighty-six counties. Official tabulation in Hennepin county (Minneapolis), the state's largest county, although proceeding slowly, has thus far failed to materially affect the result.

Leaders of both parties hope for some big error in the recount of the Hennepin county vote, that might definitely decide in which column Minnesota might be placed. When it is remembered the official recount of Ramsey (St. Paul) and St. Louis (Duluth) counties made changes of several hundred, this is looked upon as a possibility for Hennepin.

State and city elections were held in Minneapolis November 7, making it possible that official recount may not be completed for four days.

BELIEVE PLAN FOR WITHDRAWAL WILL CARRY COMMISSION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 16.—The peace market took an upward turn here again Thursday. As a result, both sides of the American-Mexican peace commission thought the border patrol agreement, including withdrawal of General Pershing's forces from Mexico would be approved Saturday night, barring unforeseen complications.

Luis Cabrera's reported opposition was variously stated as mythical and as having been overcome. In any event the commission proceeded with its labors and both groups stated confidentially that the way seemed smoothed for completing the conference at the end of the twelfth week.

R. G. Andrews, for several years cashier and bookkeeper of the Swift & Co. offices in this city, left at noon Thursday for Des Moines, where he has been promoted to head bookkeeper of the large Swift offices. Mrs. Andrews and Baby Jane will follow about the middle of December. Mr. Andrews is succeeded here by J. L. Staats.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If peevish, feverish and sick, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign his little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

HEAVY FIGHTING IS REPORTED TO SOUTH OF BORDER

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 16.—Heavy fighting between Mexican de facto government troops and Villista bandits was in progress throughout Wednesday and Wednesday night, about 150 miles south of the border on the Mexican National railway line, according to reports reaching here Tuesday.

Early in the day four hundred Carranzistas from the Juarez garrison was hurried south on a military train. The de facto authorities believe that Quevedo's band of Villistas were making another attempt to cut off Chihuahua City from communication with the border when they were pounced upon by government forces. The issue of the fighting is still uncertain.

In spite of the story told by the native refugees that the ten Americans known to be in Parral had left that town before Villa's attacks, fears of mining men are not quieted. Another flood of messages from relatives and friends of the ten men reached the offices of the mining companies following publication of the refugees' stories. Although ten days have elapsed since the Americans left Parral, according to refugees, they have not reached a channel of communication.

A column of Mexican de facto government troops are cut off from their base at Chihuahua City by the activities of Villistas operating near Bachimba canon, about thirty miles south of the capital, according to a report which reached U. S. government officials here.

Communication with the southern part of the state of Chihuahua was restored only a few days ago and the de facto government officials here reported a column of cavalry and some military trains reached the capital Monday.

The Mexican consulate here officially announced Wednesday that the government forces had recaptured Santa Rosalia, but another break in the railroad about half way between here and the capital interrupted communication and this cannot be confirmed.

STAR GRAUSNICK ON STATE PROGRAM OF SCHOOL Y. M. C. A.

Harry Grausnick, president of the Y. M. C. A. at the normal school, captain of next spring's track team and popular football star who was laid out previous to the Stevens Point game two weeks ago with a broken ankle, has been assigned a position of honor on the program of the Older Boys' State Conference of Wisconsin which is to be held at Beloit from December 1 to 3. "Stub" Barron of Iowa, heavyweight wrestling champion of the Big Nine; "Cub" Buck, Wisconsin gridiron star, Grausnick and other prominent athletes throughout the state will talk to the men at the conference on all phases of clean living. Howard T. Beaver, field secretary of college and normal school Y. M. C. A. in the northwest has requested Grausnick to give the men at Beloit the same straight-from-the-shoulder talk that he gave to the La Crosse normal men at their first feed this fall.

COUNTY GOT ITS COAL WHEN COST WAS AT LOW MARK

The record high price of coal, which is being felt with serious effect all over the United States, is not bothering La Crosse county, for Henry J. Moran, chairman, and members of the committee on buildings and grounds, bought the winter supply for all county buildings when prices were at rock bottom.

One local coal concern sold the county high quality soft coal in large quantities as low as $3.80 a ton, less than one-third the price to small consumers in La Crosse who buy now. Two other bids were for $4.00 and $3.75 1-2 per ton.

ALLEGED BERLIN CALLED ARABIA A TRANSPORT

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A formal admiralty statement Thursday called attention to a Berlin official announcement regarding sinking in the Mediterranean on the sixth of a hostile transport of 1200 tons as indicating beyond a doubt, the mail ship Arabia, sunk without warning.

The admiralty characterized this Berlin statement, "as an obvious attempt to explain away an outrageous inhuman act." The description it was said, only refers to the Arabia.

PHYSICAL HOSTILITIES THREATEN AT TRIAL

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 16.—Actual physical hostilities threatened in the McDaniel murder case Thursday between opposing lawyers when Judge C. F. Strop, attorney for the defense said "this man Lockwood, one of the state's attorneys, has several times said I could not bluff him. Now if he means physically, the place for that is outside the court room."

Lockwood replied in like fashion and Judge Ryan was forced to intervene.

The state Thursday, in examining prospective jurors, laid great stress upon the facts of talesmen belonging to the same secret societies as does McDaniel, and refused to accept without challenge the greater part of those who answered that they did not belong to the same organization as McDaniel.

A guilty conscience needs no accuser, but it nearly always has one.

COUNTY DISCUSSES PURCHASE OF FARM FOR POOR TO WORK

La Crosse county is contemplating the purchase of the old Neumeister farm, situated south of the county poor farm. If a scheme now on foot in the county board of supervisors is carried through, the farm will be worked by inmates of the county institution for dependents.

Debate on the project occupied a portion of the Thursday morning session. Chairman Richard W. Davis proposed an extension of the poor farm property. It was pointed out that the West Salem insane asylum is on a paying basis due to the fact that a considerable area of land is worked annually and a profit derived from it. Supervisor S. P. Markle told the board that the Neumeister farm could be secured for about $28,000. The committee on poor and insane was instructed to investigate and report at the next meeting of the board.

Recommendation of the proposed $2,000 for soldier relief for the county during 1917, was made by the finance committee.

Odin J. Oyen, decorator, addressed the supervisors Thursday morning on invitation of the buildings and grounds committee. He estimated the cost of the proposed redecoration of the interior of the county court house at $5,000.

Rev. William Everett Johnson, president of the Associated Charities, appealed to the board, in a short talk, for support for the humane branch of the charitable organization. The sum of $200 for a humane agent in the place of Rev. George R. Longbrake, Third regiment chaplain now in Texas with Wisconsin infantry, was asked for in a resolution presented by Supervisor Leonard Kleeber.

The supervisors left in a body on the 12:20 Milwaukee passenger for West Salem. They were met by automobiles and taken to the county insane asylum, where dinner was eaten. The board was adjourned at the conclusion of the morning session until 10 o'clock Friday morning.

OFFICER NOT SEEN UNTIL TOO LATE SAYS AUTO DRIVER

How Frank Groeschner's motorcycle scooted out from behind an ice wagon after he had turned up State street from North Third street was described Thursday morning at the coroner's inquest into the death of the motorcycle policeman by Otto Betz, 1317 Johnson street, driver of the brewery truck which killed the officer. His front rain curtain was rolled down, Betz said, and he had not seen Groeschner until the latter was only ten feet away from the electric truck.

Betz said he thought that the officer's rear wheel skidded when he attempted to swerve out of the truck's path. He himself, he said, had turned to the left, shut off the power and set the brakes just before the collision.

Betz admitted that he had "cut the corner" in making the turn in order to facilitate the climb of the steep grade. He said that he believed Groeschner also had cut on speed to make a run at the hill.

A big diagram of the street intersection was laid before the jury, and Betz drew upon it the course he had followed. He had crossed the Third street car tracks, Betz said, before he saw Groeschner, who turned east on State street from the south.

Other witnesses of the accident testified at the inquest, which was held in the office of District Attorney Otto M. Schabach.

MRS. DUMMER BURIED

The funeral of Mrs. Freda Dummer, who died Monday afternoon, was held Thursday afternoon from the residence of the daughter, Mrs. E. H. Strittmatter, 1021 Berlin street. Burial was made in Oak Grove cemetery.

The name of Mrs. George Euler, La Crosse sister of Mrs. Dummer, was omitted in the list of survivors published recently.

Frozen brakes on the auto were responsible for the accident, as they failed to work when Edwards tried to stop his car.

Elmer Engebretson Lies In Leeds Hospital With Wounds Received In France

At his home at 1327 Market street, Engebretson lies dead. In a Leeds, England, hospital, his son, Elmer, lies recovering from wounds sustained while fighting with the Canadian contingent in Northern France.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war, Elmer, who left La Crosse seven years ago to take up his residence in Canada, enlisted with the Fifth Infantry, First Canadian division. After several months' training in England, his division was ordered to the front. Today or rather when he last wrote from Leeds, October 25, but 250 of the 1,100 in his regiment, were alive. Elmer himself was wounded in the left leg and left hip from gun fire sustained the first part of October in the terrific fighting on the west front.

Elmer has been in the trenches a year and a half, having seen service both in France and Belgium. "I have seen every feature of hell but the liquid fire," he says in his latest letter. "It is terrible, the sight of the heaps of dead and wounded. It is a veritable inferno."

CONCERTED FIGHT FOR EIGHT HOUR DAY IS EXPECTED

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—Leaders of the four railway brotherhoods will address the American Federation of Labor convention here next week on the eight hour principle. Their appearance is expected to inaugurate a concerted fight for the recognition of eight hours, as a working day for all classes of employees.

At the same time the appearance of the brotherhood leaders—Warren S. Stone of the engineers; A. B. Garretson of the conductors; W. G. Lee of the trainmen and W. S. Carter of the firemen—is expected to hasten the coalition of the brotherhoods with the federation.

Labor leaders hope to force an eight-hour day not through legislation but through the power of organized labor.

"We are afraid of legislation," a high federation official, who revealed the above plan, said. "What is done by legislation can be undone. We want to put through an eight-hour day principle by direct negotiation with private employers, through the force of employed labor. We want if possible to extend the eight-hour day to all industries. It is undisputed that it makes for efficiency. A man can do more and better work in eight hours, when results are tabulated, than he can in a longer day. At present the shoe building trade, composing machinists, boiler-makers and other unions—have no standard day. The government navy yards work its men eight hours a day; private shipbuilders work their employees nine, ten or more hours a day. We are going to try to obtain recognition of the eight-hour day in this trade and also in the iron and steel industries."

OTHER MAN'S WIFE CLEARS SPOUSE N THE ODEGAARD CASE

Count of a visit to La Crosse with his mother last spring. They went to a room, he said, and "he went down and got two bottles of beer and then four bottles."

"Who do you mean by 'he'?" asked the judge.

"Mr. Grey," said the boy.

Says Grey Gave Him Money

He said that Grey had given him money, that he had bought crack-cocaine, and that when he returned from buying the sweets he had fallen asleep. When he awoke, he said, his mother was gone. He told the judge that he heard the voices of his mother and Grey from the room across the hall.

"Like a lot of houses piled together," was Floyd's description of the building in which the rooms were located.

"I saw it today and told papa," the youngster said, "but he didn't hear me."

J. E. Higbee, counsel for Mrs. Odegaard, cross-examined the boy to bring out that he had never mentioned the story of the trip to his mother or his aunt, although he has been with them ever since the quarrel and separation of his mother and father last summer. Floyd said he had told the story to no one except his father, R. S. Cowie and A. T. Twesme, his father's attorneys.

The boy clung to his story unshakably, despite the rigid cross-questioning of Higbee.

Co-Respondent Deaf

Grey's testimony caused smiles to play over the faces of the spectators. The cattlebuyer, a burly, red-faced man with a big voice, is extremely deaf and the attorneys shout their questions into his ear at the top of their voices.

"I had a friend with me, see?" said the co-respondent when asked about the alleged visits to his rooms across from the telephone exchange. "I wanted her to get out without being seen, see? So I went out in the hall and spread out my coat across the door where the telephone girls were. See?"

"Positively not," was Grey's answer to a question if Mrs. Odegaard had been his friend. He denied having admitted relations with Mrs. Odegaard to Carl Swenson, who later testified that Grey had made such admissions and had told him he was going to "cut it out."

Mrs. Grey, a pale, self-possessed woman in a grey-checked suit, testified that she had married the co-respondent on September 13. She said that he had made several trips to Walesville to see her fiancée during the late winter and spring, while living at Arcadia. She also told of espousing from Grey's room under the field of his overcoat spread against the curious eyes of the telephone operators. She testified that she had seen in Grey's room upon one occasion when Mrs. Odegaard came to the door and asked for her husband. Mrs. Odegaard later testified that on that occasion she had been looking for Odegaard because she feared he had been drinking, and had heard talk that liquor was kept in the building where Grey roomed.

OWEN MAY RESIGN TO PRACTICE LAW WITH CAPITAL FIRM

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 16.—Attorney General Walter C. Owen, re-elected for the coming two years, will very probably resign his office by January 1, according to the announcement in semi-official circles here Thursday.

Mr. Owen on Monday will become a member of the law firm of Richmond & Jackson of this city. This fact was confirmed by both Mr. Jackson and Mr. Owen today.

Mr. Owen declined to make any announcement relative to his resignation as attorney general, saying that he had nothing for publication at this time.

It appears, according to close friends of Mr. Owen, that he is seriously contemplating sending his resignation to Governor Philipp and that any delay will depend upon the choice of the governor for his successor. Friends of the attorney general favor the appointment of Walter Drew, deputy attorney general, and it is said that if the governor will give him the promise to the appointment of Mr. Owen will be forthcoming shortly.

This announcement has caused an upheaval of no small dimension in state circles here. Mr. Owen was re-elected attorney general at the elections last Tuesday by an overwhelming majority. It will be possible for him to continue as attorney general and to be in private practice at the same time. There is nothing in the constitution that prohibits such action and other holders of the office have done so. Since he has been in the office, Mr. Owen has devoted all his time to the official duties.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS MASS MEETING FOR GAME WITH SPARTA

The general assembly of high school students which was held this morning instead of on Wednesday, the usual day, was turned over to the students for a mass meeting. Like all the meetings of this kind held this year, this one was started by "The Star-Spangled Banner" followed by "We're Faithful to You, La Crosse High." Big Rudie Blatter told of his experiences while playing football out of town. This is Blatter's fourth year on the team, he having received his first L. C. when a freshman.

Blatter said schools are no longer enemies, but fair play is the characteristic of athletics. He told of the time when La Crosse played in Tomah two years ago. La Crosse won 9 to 0 and after the game the Red and Black team was bid good-bye with a shower of stones, sticks and pop bottles. This year when the local boys went up to Tomah, they were taken from the depot in autos, he said.

Mr. McCormick gave an account of football games between Sparta, which is to be played here Saturday afternoon, and La Crosse and Miss Dunn talked on "School Spirit."

A vote was taken in general assembly on what to do between halves Saturday and it was decided to form a huge S and yell for Sparta.

Mr. Hassett, who is in charge of the entertainment to be given for Sparta at the La Crosse theater Saturday night, said that about 700 people had signed up for seats.

FIVE BUCKS COME WITH NIMRODS

Two big six-point bucks, bearing the names of Frank Winter and J. G. McKenzie, were the first trophies of the deer season to appear in La Crosse. They arrived Thursday, simultaneously with the return of Mr. Winter and Mr. McKenzie from their camp near Winter, Wis. Deer is plentiful. Mr. Winter said, and the party had no trouble in getting its limit of five bucks. The largest buck killed weighed 215 pounds, and the smallest over 150.

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hairs removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste, she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone.

EMPLOYERS UNITE TO KEEP OPEN EYE ON LEGISLATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Prospects of the greatest industrial struggle in history were increasing Thursday. The capital-and-labor situation arising from the railroads' determination to fight the Adamson eight-hour law was accentuated by formation of a vast organization of employers to be known as the national industrial conference board. This new body, representing $8,000,000,000 capital and employing seven million persons, proposes that industrial legislation shall be watched more closely, that legislators shall be guided by public information and that favoritism to labor shall be eliminated.

It will fight such measures as the Adamson eight-hour law; and it believes that the election showed there is no labor vote, and hence legislators hereafter need not curvy favor with labor leaders, as they claim has been done in the past.

The significance of the new alignment increased with the receipt of word in United Press Baltimore dispatches that the brotherhoods will join to force the eight-hour day in all industries—not by legislation but by the force of organized labor.

The railroads kept up their preparations for trying to prevent operation of the Adamson law. More suits, covering all lines and all districts, will be submitted to courts all over the nation in the next ten days.

It was apparent in railroad circles that the managers have virtually given up hope of coming to terms with the brotherhood chiefs, although they said "the latch-string is out for the men and their representatives." The managers' conference adjourned. Another meeting may be called next week, however, it was said.

One of the leading railroad managers said today he knows nothing about a reported conference with the president.

All interested in charities work are invited to attend the dinner and the meeting afterwards, when Mr. McLean will speak. CANADA WARNED OF A SUBMARINE IN THE PACIFIC

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 16.—Warning has been issued by the Canadian government, it was reported here Thursday, that a German submarine is operating off the Pacific coast.

The word reached Seattle with the arrival of the Japanese liner Inaba Maru, which changed her course and extinguished all lights after receiving the wireless message of warning. She proceeded to the Oregon coast and then steered north to Victoria within the three-mile limit.

K. Mizutani, director of the Yemato Steamship company of Osaka, Japan, said here that a German submarine might have been shipped to the Pacific in parts and then assembled on some secluded island.

LONDON PAPERS APPROVE GREY'S BLACKLIST NOTE

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Newspapers Wednesday editorially hailed Sir Edward Grey's reply to the American protest on the British blacklist as an admirable expression of British sentiment.

"Sir Edward Grey's defense of the blacklist," the Pall Mall Gazette declared, "leaves its assailants without a leg to stand on unless they are prepared to argue that we ought to prolong hostilities and endanger our victory for the purpose of filling others' pockets."

NEW POPULAR SONG WITH QUAIN IDEA

Catchy Love Ballad Which is Latest Craze.

A new song has just appeared which has no frivolous flavor to it. It seems to chiefly appeal to the loyalty of the girl who finds in the man of her choice the counterpart of her head and mother. The idea is rather original.

The music is particularly catchy. Here is a part of the chorus cut from a copy just received:

In The Sweet Long Ago

CHORUS.
Can't you bring back the olden love-days, the golden love-days of long ago? Can't you bring back all the old-fashioned melodies mother and dad used to know? Can't you bring back the beautiful misses, the tender kisses by moonlight glow. Oh, I wish I could find some.

Although the range is only an octave, without high notes, the harmony affords a very striking effect and brings out the voice most effectively.

WILSON GAINS 502 OVER UNOFFICIAL CALIFORNIA COUNT

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 16.—

Net gain of 502 over his figures in the unofficial count were shown for President Wilson Thursday in complete official presidential returns from 50 out of the 58 counties in California tabulated by the United Press. These figures tend to indicate that Wilson's minimum plurality over Hughes when all official returns are in will be between 3,700 and 3,800, unless a vital error is discovered in one of the large counties.

The counties which have not yet completed the official count are Los Angeles, Alameda, San Francisco, San Diego, Butte, Fresno, San Bernardino and Sacramento. The difference between Hughes' net unofficial lead in these eight counties and Wilson's official lead in the other fifty counties is approximately 4,000.

In San Francisco county election commissioners argued whether to throw out the whole precinct, because of a slight error. With half the returns here counted, Hughes has gained 48 votes. In Los Angeles county Hughes has gained about 200 votes in the official count.

BIG PRESSMEN'S BALL SATURDAY

One of the most popular gala affairs of the season is anticipated in the grand ball to be given by the La Crosse Printing Pressmen and their Assistants on Saturday, November 18, at the Armory hall. The best of music is to be provided by John Andre and his cohorts, the floor has been put in the best of condition and nothing has been left neglected or incomplete in the slightest detail by the committees in charge of the event. This is the second annual event of its kind for the pressmen of the city. It is anticipated that the affair will occur regularly hereafter judging from the hearty response that is greeting the efforts of the pressmen on their attempt.

CRITICS DECLARE WARNER PICTURE TRIANGLE'S BEST

H. B. Warner is again adventuring in movieland, and when that dominant figure of Triangle stardom is given a role in which the heroic element is uppermost, he is not only at his best but he challenges any screen actor of America—for the secret is that Warner is at home. In these parts La Crosse always gives him a hearty welcome to the Majestic. He is being greeted by audience at that theater Thursday in "The Vagabond Prince," and should be a repeat performance. The "S. R. O." sign will be out before Saturday night.

One New York movie critic said that "The Vagabond Prince" was the season's best contribution from Triangle cameras. Based on the journey of King Albert, of Belgium, how he visited America in the guise of a common man, and of his thrilling adventures in other lands. "The Vagabond Prince" is historically perfect. It is said to be even more of a success than Triangle's memorable production of "The Beggar of Cashmere," in which Warner was seen at the Majestic recently.

The production is one of those in which you forget your surroundings entirely, and content yourself with sitting hypnotized until a happy Keystone breaks into your dreams. It would be unfair not to add that Dorothy Dalton, the star of "A Jungle Child," another recent Majestic success, plays opposite Mr. Warner.

But you can't always tell by a man's actions whether he's a fool or a genius.

Short Story

OFF THE COAST

BY SUSAN E. CLAGETT

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Just why Lavinia Payton was determined to carry out her plan in the face of angry opposition she could not have told. Probably it was due to the opposition. But this last idea, tad, idiosyncrasy, whatever her friends were minded to call it, passed anything that had gone before.

Yet it was a very simple thing she proposed to do—merely to shun the beaten path that led toward White Sulphur Springs and go anywhere that would take her away from the life her people had led for generations and expected her to live. White Sulphur or Saratoga during the summer, Richmond and Washington during the winter months, with frequent trips to New York.

When asked where she was going she shook her head with a smile.

"I have no definite plan," she replied. But far back in the recesses of her brain was a very positive idea. She was going somewhere by water and alone. She longed for Portugal or the fjords of Norway, but she sailed on a steamer for the fjords of Newfoundland, the Norway of America.

The walk to Signal or Cabot's Tower, is not one to take alone. It is long. It is steep. The road follows the shore until it begins to ascend and is lonely. When steamers come there is always a sprinkling of people, mostly driving toward the tower, where there is a magnificent view of the harbor and ocean. This and much more was told in the booklet Lavinia had learned by heart. But there was one grave omission. Indeed, two. The first was wind, the other, mist. What was fog in the city was a fine rain higher up, and the wind was a gale.

She had felt wind before, but never like this. It whipped her wet skirts about her until she thought she would never move again. She tried to loosen them as she stumbled along the rocky path, her breath coming and going in gasps. Ahead was the tower, gray and somber, built to defy the elements. She saw a little group of people standing in an angle of the granite mass, one figure apart from the others and nearer to her. Then everything was blank. She was conscious only of blind terror as the wind caught and whirled her about. For a space, eternity fronted her, then the awfulness of the wind subsided and she found herself clinging desperately to the gray sleeve of an usher.

"What made you attempt that alone?" the man said roughly, giving her a little shake as he let her go. But Lavinia had no mind to be let go and clung to the arm that was half withdrawn.

"Don't dare to faint," the voice went on sharply. "Didn't you know Signal Hill was no place for a woman unless she had a man with her?"

"I don't know. The book said walk, so I walked."

"Why didn't you bring some one with you?"

"I am alone."

"Surely you made friends coming up on the steamer?"

"No. That was just what I didn't wish to do. All my life I have wanted to get away from everybody."

"Well, you missed it by the fraction of a second. Another such gust and you would have got away from everybody. I caught you just in time."

He left her in the angle of the wall and stepped forward, a tall, broad-shouldered, athletic-looking man with keen blue eyes and a determined mouth.

"Come," he said, extending his hand. "You must see the view before we go."

She hesitated.

"Come." This time the word was impatient. "If we are to make Qu-

EDNA GOODRICH A BEAUTIFUL BRIDE

The ideal American beauty, in the most becoming of all her gowns, the wedding dress, triumphs in the elaborate, complex society photodrama at the Bijou theater.

Queenly, the personification of loveliness, Edna Goodrich with her perfect beauty and regal carriage makes a wonderfully attractive bride-to-be in the Morosco-Paramount photoplay, "The House of Lies" that deals with the determination of a beautiful American woman to be won for her other qualities besides her beauty and appearance.

Rebelling against a mercenary family she sacrifices her beauty that the supreme test might succeed. To be shown tonight, Friday and Saturday.

Painting Windows.

An effective and cheap method of darkening windows is to stipple them by means of a brush with white lead and turpentine, applied lightly or thickly as desired. Red lead could be used where a tint is preferred, or other colors could be obtained by mixing the pigment of the desired shade with the white lead. This preparation can easily be removed.

Miss Roberta Willard.

Miss Roberta Willard of Newport, R. I., was acclaimed by general consent the most beautiful woman in that society resort during the season just closing. SMILES INDICATE PERFECT HEALTH, INSURES SUCCESS

Health is attributed directly to our mental attitude—wrong state of thought is said to cause physical disorders. Impure blood destroys mental poise and breeds hate.

"Cheerfulness is the first essential to success in business and social affairs," said the Tanlac Man.

"Happiness is the birthright and duty of every man and woman. Not only does it pay greater dividends than any other investment, but it is absolutely necessary in our dealings with other people."

Bad Health, Bad Humor

"We must smile to retain respect and to win new friends. We must take hard knocks with a laugh and conquer them. We must meet petty vexations with good humor."

"Health hinges directly on our mental attitude. Bad temper, wrong thoughts, jealousy, envy or too much self-pity result in a disordered liver, bad blood, headache and nervous irritability. We become soured toward the world and the world returns sourness with interest."

Wrecks Mental Poise

"If our physical bodies get out of order a mental reaction is sure to follow. When the stomach is overloaded the digestive machinery gets clogged and all kinds of disorders follow."

"Impure blood causes headaches, wrecks our mental poise and peace of mind and makes us hate our neighbor. Chronic constipation often causes other chronic troubles and that means a chronic frown. In 95 cases out of 100 this is caused by disordered digestion."

di Vidi we must be off."

"But I am not going to Quidi Vidi."

"Yes, you are. The village is my objective point."

"It is not mine."

"See here." For the first time she saw his face and it was filled with anger. "Do you think I am going to give up my trip because you are obstinately determined to go back the way you came?"

"What has my determination to do with it?"

"Can you cross that strip alone?" He nodded toward the narrow path where the wind had full sweep although she could not feel it where she sat. "I should think one experience would be sufficient. You and I are alone. The others who were here left some time ago. I am going on. You are coming with me. Hurry. The climb down the rocks will soon be dangerous."

She arose with such evident reluctance that he threw back his head and laughed.

It was a long and rough scramble to the little fishing village, one of the most picturesque on the Newfoundland coast. It was a glimpse of nature never to be forgotten and impossible of description.

For a time Lavinia stood silent.

"To think I might have missed it," she said at last. "Thank you for making me come."

"I take it you are not often made to do anything," he said, with a smile.

"This is the first time within my memory." She answered his smile. "I imagine you are not often crossed, yourself."

"I pretty generally have my way," he replied carelessly. "Do you see that tiny, whitewashed cottage over yonder? I boarded there one summer. I am glad to remember I was there. The following winter was most severe. There was much suffering, so in a small way I helped my landlady over a perilous time." He glanced at her curiously.

"Does it ever occur to you to wonder how the other half lives?"

She shook her head. "This is my first escape from the beaten path."

"Don't you ever long to get away from it?" he asked casually.

They were loitering along the two-mile stretch of road between the village and St. John's. As he spoke she paused and looked back at the lovely view. "I wouldn't be here if I had not felt I must escape from it."

When they parted neither knew the other's name. Lavinia did not think it necessary to mention her's, as they would never meet again, and if there was a purpose behind the keen, amused eyes as the man touched her hand in parting there was no outward sign that he did not acquiesce in her decision.

The next morning she left for Labrador.

She was a little late in reaching the steamer, and somewhat breathless from haste, was following the steward down the deck when the back of a rough, gray coat caught and held her attention. There was something familiar about it, so familiar that she moved hastily forward, confronting the owner with blazing eyes.

"You!"

"Why not?"

"You came because you knew I was sailing on this steamer?"

"Partly. I intended taking the

"And how am I to know you will not make yourself as unpleasant as other people. You are as much a stranger as they."

He regarded her steadily. "You will take that back," he said at last.

"No." She turned from him without another word.

They ran into fog that night, depressing, penetrating fog. There were eleven days of it, and the trip was lengthened to a fortnight, but long before the fourteen days were up Lavinia had offered friendliness. It was one thing to be alone in sunshine, quite another to be alone and weighed down by a heavy gray blanket that allowed no view other than that of the steamer's deck.

He accepted her overtures with no degree of eagerness, but under his apparent indifference was a steadfast determination that made itself evident their last evening on board when he ended the silence that had fallen between them by saying:

"You have not yet retracted the words you said to me the morning we left St. John's."

"It is not fair that you should hold them against me. I was beginning to regard you as a friend."

"You had recognized the possibilities of friendship even before you spoke."

"You are mistaken. I had given it no thought."

"You knew I was to be trusted."

She did not answer directly. "For two weeks we have neither of us known who the other was. I do not even know your name, but I am going to ask you to my home. Will you come?"

His eyes softened to a wonderful gentleness. "When?"

"And you may ask for—"

He interrupted. "You need not tell me."

"Your picture stood on your brother's desk at college. He is my very good friend and the picture is a wonderful likeness."

He did not consider it necessary to tell her he had begged the picture from his friend. That would

THE HASKIN LETTER

The Latest Little Theater

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 16.
WESTWARD the Little theater takes its way. Starting its career in Paris and London it jumped to New York, paused for breath and leaped to Chicago. Now it is about to make its appearance in St. Louis, in its most ambitious form.

The Little theater wherever you may find it is the protest of the elect against the commercialization of the drama. It is a protest for the production of plays of the sort that people who shun musical comedy call worth while and attend; and that most people call highbrow and keep away from. Hence it is a little theater; and hence also it is rarely a financial success. The St. Louis Little theater, however, will not be dependent on the patronage of the general public for its existence. It starts life in a building of unprecedented magnificence and convenience—for a Little theater—and that building is paid for to the last nail. The financial success of future performances is similarly assured by subscriptions to tickets for the coming first season. Here is an enterprise which does not have to cater to the hypothetical predilections of the tired business man.

The Artists' guild of St. Louis, a local organization of painters, writers and sculptors, mingled with individuals who pursue more commercial careers and earn more money, is responsible for the newest Little theater. The guild considered the brief and chequered career of the Little theater as an institution in various big cities, and evidently decided that it is asking a great deal to expect a Little theater to make money. The Washington Square players of New York seem to be prospering, inasmuch as their projects are more ambitious year after year, and they are now sending out a road company, but on the whole the weight of experience shows that the Little theater, presenting plays selected for literary and artistic merit, is rarely a financial success.

The Artists' guild, however, was not considering a commercial proposition. Their double purpose was to provide a place where certain traditions of the drama might be upheld and where they might see plays of the kind that they like to see. To settle the financial question they turned in and raised the necessary money by subscription among themselves and their friends. A love of the better drama that can finance a playhouse like this Little theater of St. Louis is entitled to respect.

The building has just been completed; the first performance to be held about the 16th of November. Here is a theater with a stage almost as big as the auditorium. One of the main drawbacks in Little theater construction in the past has been the small size of the stage. In the minds of designers there seems to have lingered some idea that the size of the stage ought to bear some relation to the size of the house; and when the house was cut down to a third or a quarter of the usual size, the stage suffered accordingly. In this theater the stage is as wide as the widest part of the pit, and more than half as deep.

All the latest mechanical devices for handling scenery have been installed, and the "loft," where the various settings of scenery are swung when out of use, is of dimensions that compared to the size of the house are really immense. There are all facilities for handling scenic effects of the most elaborate realistic sort, although the new playhouse will doubtless go in for a fair share of the simple effects in setting and background that are beginning to take hold on the more sophisticated producers of Europe.

The auditorium of this Little theater has some novel mechanical effects of its own. The seating space is divided into two sections—the gallery, with seats for ninety people, and the main floor with 260 chairs. Under ordinary conditions the main floor is level, but when a play is on, the rear part of the floor rises on hydraulic jacks to let the holders of rear seats look over the heads of those farther forward. This arrangement allows the auditorium to be used for art exhibitions or social purposes when it is not being used for a theater.

A novel system of lighting has been worked out by Mr. Bassett Jones, who is in charge of the lighting effects in the Washington Square players' theater in New York. The lighting in the St. Louis Little theater will be a reproduction of a daylight effect, coming through a glass arch in the ceiling. Mr. Jones, who also was responsible for the effective lighting in the original "Peter Pan" production, has devised the stage lighting system for the new playhouse; and in connection with the modern ideas in scenic devices which will be carried out, some interesting results can be looked for.

Splendid for Bad Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis

An Inexpensive Home-Made Remedy—Gives Surest, Quickest Relief.

Anyone who tries this pleasant tasting home-made cough syrup, will quickly understand why it is used in more homes in the United States and Canada than any other cough remedy. The way it takes hold of an obstinate cough, giving immediate relief, will make you regret that you never tried it before. It is a truly dependable cough remedy that should be kept handy in every home to use at the first sign of a cough during the night or day time.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents and you have a full pint of the most effective remedy you ever used.

The quick, lasting relief you get from this excellent cough syrup will really surprise you. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacal and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

rious little playhouse is also a home product of St. Louis, so that the city will be able to point to the theater at the end of the first play and claim the whole, from the stage to the star, as its own institution. The company will put on a series of ten performances, including both American and continental drama, full length and one-act pieces. The choice of plays covers a wide range, but holds pretty faithfully to work which was written without an eye to the box office.

Besides this company, organized of professional actors by a local drama society, the new stage is intended to be used by the Artists' guild itself, and by similar associations who care to put on drama of the artistic sort. It will furnish a home for touring Little theater companies, which are apparently destined to become more and more a feature of the theatrical landscape. All performances will be conducted on the subscription plan—seats will be subscribed for in advance, so far as possible, preferably in the form of season tickets. The house is thus not open to the general public; but the spirit of the people back of the movement is such that anyone who really cares for the drama and wants to see it will be able to get a seat for some of the Little theater productions.

St. Louis' Little theater is something of a new departure in principle as well as in architecture. It is the result of a few people who have enthusiasm for a project that they believe will make for encouraging the highest tendencies in the drama. This fact of private backing has enabled the theater to supply itself with all the mechanical and decorative appurtenances which the most prosperous playhouse could desire. Plays will be staged and acted and costumed in a similar adequate manner. The unusual play will get the benefit of as generous a production as the usual play has been getting. Everyone who cares for the drama will watch the new playhouse with interest, and doubtless try to get a seat whenever he happens to be in St. Louis.

Whether or no this Little theater or all the little theaters on both sides of the Atlantic, can do much to change the general standard of the drama is another question. They can and do give a great deal of pleasure to their patrons. But when it is a matter of the dramatic standards of an age and a nation, then the standard of the big playhouse with the "Standing Room Only" sign in front of the door is the one that really counts. Still, the work of the Little theaters cannot fail of a certain effect, and it is an effect of the right kind.

STREET CARS DELAYED

Pulling out of a drawbar on a Burlington train at 6:50 and derailment of a car at Seventh and Market street at 7:30 caused fifteen and ten minutes delay to street car service. Superintendent C. L. Hedges of the street car system announced Wednesday. The Burlington train was stopped across the car tracks from the north side, and scores of passengers were required to walk around it and transfer. The south side derailment was due to a lump of frozen dirt on the tracks.

An Effective Laxative For Growing Children

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Highly Recommended as a Family Remedy.

In children the slightest irregularity of the bowels has a tendency to disturb the entire digestive system, and unless promptly remedied invites serious illness. The experienced mother knows that by training her children to regularity in this respect, and when occasion arises administering a mild laxative, she will have little need for the doctor's services.

Mrs. Leo Weigand, 3251 Central Ave., N. S., Pittsburg, Pa., whose two boys, Frank and Joseph, are shown in the illustration, writes that she has found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a most effective laxative, not only for the children but also for herself, and that she will always keep it in the house to use when needed. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts easily and naturally, without griping or other pain or discomfort. It is pleasant to the taste so that children like it, and is equally effective on the strongest constitution.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents, and should have a place in every home. It will save many times its cost in lessened doctor bills and maintain the health of the entire family. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Out of Sorts

THAT IS, something is wrong with baby, but we can't tell just what it is. All mothers recognize the term by the lassitude, weakness, loss of appetite, inclination to sleep, heavy breathing, and lack of interest shown by baby. These are the symptoms of sickness. It may be fever, congestion, worms, croup, diphtheria, or scarlatina. Do not lose a minute. Give the child Castoria. It will start the digestive organs into operation, open the pores of the skin, carry off the foetid matter, and drive away the threatened sickness.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Dr. J. C. Williams

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Wheat opened steady and advanced on later buying. The market showed confidence, evidently believing that requirements for wheat in Great Britain will remain heavy despite the attempt of the government to curtail consumption. December was up 1/2c at $1.87 1/2; May unchanged at $1.93; July down 1/4c at $1.61 1/2.

Corn showed gains on good buying with December up 1/2c at 97 1/2c; May up 1/4c at 98 1/2c.

Oats were slightly higher. December was up 1/2c at 58 1/2c; May up 1/4c at 62c.

Provisions were steady.

CITY WOULD BUY COAL LANDS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Purchase of coal lands by the city of Cleveland, as a guard against further coal famines, will be considered by the city council.
Lighting Commissioner W. E. Davis is back of the plan to purchase coal fields to supply the 700,000 tons used yearly by this city.

HOOR'S WRANGLE LEAVES OIL SITE MATTER UNCHANGED

Committees Report Favorably on Mormon Coulee Road Site Already Paused and Recalled

BITTER FIGHT PROMISED

Several of Dozen Aldermen Who Were For It Have Said They Will Change Their Votes

After one hour and fifteen minutes of wrangling, the city council fire and ordinance committees Wednesday night took action which leaves the site situation of the proposed Badger Oil company exactly where it was a month ago. The committee, by a split vote, turned down the proposal to grant building permission on the site at Jackson street and the Green Bay tracks, and recommended the site at the foot of Fifth street.

The proposal which received the committee's O. K. is the same one which was passed by the council at its October meeting. At a special meeting called later it was reconsidered and referred back to the committee, which Wednesday night placed it on the ways for a second launching.

That there will be a bitter fight over the matter in the council is considered certain since several of the twelve aldermen who voted for it in the first instance have announced their intention to change their votes. Citizens in the Fifth and Mormon Coulee road vicinity are in arms over the proposed location, and have been agitating the matter with city officials and aldermen for a month.

Favorable report was ordered for the anti-parking ordinance which would prohibit automobiles standing in the business district from 9 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening. The parking places allowed in the ordinance are in the blocks surrounding the court house. An amendment was inserted prohibiting parking for a space of 100 feet in front of theaters, it being pointed out that in case of fires machines before the doors might seriously hamper work of the fire department.

Wednesday afternoon members of the park commission, the board of health and the board of education met with the finance committee concerning their 1917 appropriations. No action was taken regarding the funds to be placed in the budget, the finance committee withholding all its decisions pending the fiscal arrangements to be made by the county board.

It was indicated that the $30,000 which the board of education estimates will be required to put the Washburn school into shape will not be sought this year. It is proposed, it is said, that some $10,000 be placed in the budgets for the next three years, in order to decrease the burden to some extent.

WILSON WIRELESSES GREETINGS TO MIKADO

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 16.—Sitting in Washington President Wilson Wednesday exchanged greetings by wireless with the emperor of Japan, formally opening the longest commercial wireless service ever used.

This was the San Francisco-Tokio direct communication wireless established by the Marconi company. President Wilson's message, which was a greeting from the American people to the people of Japan, was the first handled through the new wireless.

"His Imperial Majesty, Emperor of Japan: The government and the people of the United States send greetings to your imperial majesty and to the people of Japan and rejoice in this triumph of science which enables the voice of America from the far West to cross the silent spaces of the world and speak to Japan in the far East, having the dawn of a new day. May this wonderful event conform the unbroken friendship of our two nations and give assurance of a never ending interchange of messages of good will. May the day soon come when the voice of peace, carried by these silent messengers, shall come into all the world and its words to the end of the world."

Roy W. Howard, president of the United Press, from New York wireless Ralph H. Ludner, United Press correspondent in Tokyo.
Messages were also sent to Minister of Communications Tanaka, Baron Shibusawa and the American ambassador from the Japanese ambassador at Washington.

NORMAL BEARS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR THE AGGIE GAME

Last Game of Season to Be Played in St. Paul Friday with Minnesota Aggies; Team to See Big Game

Captain Miller and his football warriors, recently known as polar bears since they have been prancing about on the snowy field, are in the best of condition for the final match of the 1916 gridiron season. The sixteen men with Coaches Sputh and Keeler will leave for St. Paul at 6:40 Friday morning, where they will clash with the Minnesota Aggies in the afternoon. The men will remain in the Saintly city for the night to witness the Wisconsin-Minnesota game on Saturday.

The scrimmage of Wednesday night on the normal field was the first since the River Falls game for La Crosse. On Monday night the men were engaged in shoveling off the field. For Tuesday's practice Dr. Sputh handed out tennis shoes to his men and the practice was held in the warm gymnasium with the firsts running off their signals. The firsts showed up with considerable "pep" on Wednesday and walked over the seconds on the snow covered field. Reports from the north indicate that St. Paul has not enjoyed its first heavy snow fall as yet this year, so the normal players are assured of a more pleasant gridiron on which to scrimmage in their final tussle of the year.

MILWAUKEE NORTH DISBANDS AND SO WON'T PLAY HERE

Manager Gouldin of the High School Hopes, However, to Secure a Game with the Edgerton Team

The Thanksgiving game this year will not be with North Milwaukee. The Cream City players have decided to disband, according to word received by the local high school management. Manager Gouldin is still trying to bring Edgerton here, but the sentiment in the Tobacco City seems to be that the townspeople want to see their team play at home on Turkey day. However, the Southwesterners have not yet been able to secure a home game to suit them and it is still probable that they may come here.

NEW YORK BOXING LAW THREATENED WITH COURT CASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—That the New York state law which allows ten round, no decision boxing exhibitions, will shortly be put to a test, was indicated Thursday by the wrath of the managers of Harry Pierce and Shamus O'Brien, lightweights who met a few nights ago. Their bout was stopped by the referee, who declared the men were not doing their best. The boxing commission ruled that the referee was right in stopping the bout and refusing to allow the boxers any pay for their services. According to New York critics, if O'Brien and Pierce carry the matter to the courts, which they have threatened to do, it will raise the question of whether the commission has the right to demand that the boxers fight instead of boxing. The state allows only "boxing exhibitions."

TIBBOTT BACK FOR PRINCETON; SHELDON FOR THE BULL DOG

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Indications are stronger than ever that those who journey to Princeton Saturday will be rewarded with one of the hardest fought football games that has taken place between the Yale bull dog and the Princeton Tiger for many a day.

The reason is this: David Tibbott has returned to the Princeton line-up and there is every probability he will get a chance to insert a thrill or two by attempting field goals. Chub Sheldon, Yale tackle, who was sent to the infirmary and counted out of football for the rest of his days, again is wearing togs at New Haven and the chances are very good that he will get into action against Princeton. Most surely he will be ready for the big combat with Harvard.

WOULD COST CUBS $25,000 FOR FRANK CHANCE'S SERVICES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 16.—If the Chicago Cubs want Frank Chance to manage the team in 1917 it will cost them $25,000.

This was the ultimatum issued here by the peerless leader.
"If I can win with the Cubs next year, I would be worth $25,000 a year to the owners," said Chance at his Glendora ranch. "I wouldn't take the job for less than two years. If I can't win for Chicago, I wouldn't be worth anything."

CONCILIATOR TO ST. PAUL
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The department of labor on Wednesday sent John J. Keegan, conciliator to St. Paul, Minn., to handle a dispute between the Great Northern railway and its car men.

BELLMEN EXPECT A HARD TUSSLE WITH SPARTANS

No Top-heavy Score Anticipated, Although Sparta Was Downed by Tomah by Score of 49 to 0

1904—La Crosse 6, Sparta 5. La Crosse 0, Sparta 0.
1905—La Crosse 6, Sparta 21.
1906—La Crosse 0, Sparta 16. La Crosse 5, Sparta 12.
1907—La Crosse 6, Sparta 11. La Crosse 4, Sparta 6.
1908—La Crosse 0, Sparta 8. La Crosse 10, Sparta 12.
1909—La Crosse 17, Sparta 0.
1912—La Crosse 37, Sparta 7.
1913—La Crosse 10, Sparta 13.
1914—La Crosse 12, Sparta 7.
1915—La Crosse 66, Sparta 0.
Total—La Crosse 179, Sparta 118.

A glance at the La Crosse-Sparta record shows that La Crosse has won but five and tied one game of fourteen starts against the Monroe county rivals. But another glance shows that of the last five games played, La Crosse has won four, indicating the prowess of the Sparta warriors.

This year Sparta has received a drubbing at the hands of Tomah to the tune of 49 to 0, while La Crosse defeated the Monroe county boys by a single touchdown. These comparative scores, however, count for little as all teams have off days and play harder against certain opponents than against others.

There has always been keen rivalry between Sparta and La Crosse, and playing under this stimulation has enabled the team which held the short end of the odds to upset the dope and spring some startling surprise. This was the case in 1913, when Sparta was doped to beat La Crosse by anywhere from 40 to 60 points. Coach Horne's eleven determined to put up the game of their life and the red and yellow just won by a narrow margin of three points, the score being 13 to 10.

Coach Bell is drilling his warriors for the match with the red and black's ancient enemy Saturday with hard work. Tuesday afternoon they shovelled the snow off the field and Wednesday they went through fast signal practice and scrimmage with the second team. The ground was frozen so that Coach Bell did not care to take any risk with the injured men. Bleakly, whose side still bothers him, and Feinberg, who has a boil on his neck, did not get into the scrimmage, and Pratt and Rippe took turns at quarter, while Bunge was in his old place at center, Schick playing his guard.

Wallie Reget, last year's captain, and "Bloody" Hackner, who have been working at Oconomowoc, have been out working practice, and the team has added to its large supply of pep through the presence of the old timers.

Many Cuban Ball Players Make Their Marks On United States Diamonds

BY HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Cuban ball players by droves may be expected on American baseball teams within the next few years, if the present rate of development in the island republic is continued. There are many of the brown-skinned exponents of the American national game who will be given tryouts this year. Several Cubans already have won fame as big leaguers.

There is Armando Marsans, who now is performing for the St. Louis Browns, and Miguel Gonzales, who is backstopping for the Cardinals. These two men have made their mark as big leaguers. Another Cuban, Acosta, outfielder, appears to be ready to hold down a regular berth with Washington, and Angel Aragon and Jose Rodriguez, the former with the Yankees and the latter with the Giants, appear to be real big league stock.

Manuel Cueto already has been signed to a big league contract, but they're having so much fuss over it that it isn't at all certain where he will draw his pay check next season.

Jacinto Calvo, an outfielder, has been grabbed up by Detroit from the Northwestern league and will be given his first trial in fast company next spring.

Adolpho Luque and Emilio Palerm, both pitchers, are former big leaguers who now are doing duty in the American association, and another will join them when Pedro Dibu, a right hand flinger, joins the Milwaukee club next spring.

Rafael Almeida probably will get a chance next season with the International league. He played third base for the Scranton, New York, State league and did it so well that Montreal exercised its option.

Oscar Tuero, a right hand pitcher, is with the Eastern league, and Frank Munoz is in the North Carolina league.

These Cubans probably will be joined by others of their country after John McGraw and several other prominent baseball men get through looking them over this winter. Several journeys to Cuba are under contemplation by baseball managers.

FOUR REQUESTS OF PLAYERS TABLED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—With the tabling of four requests from the Players' fraternity, introduced by Dave Fultz Wednesday the minor league magnates and managers settled down Thursday to wind up their annual meeting.

Baseball trades and new managers for many of the little league clubs were the interest absorbing topics of the day.

The players' requests were as follows:
Elimination of alleged contracts permitting clubs to suspend injured players; that players be given the right to sign new contracts immediately after their unconditional release; allowance to minor league players of traveling expenses from their home clubs to the club's city or its spring training camp, and changes in the procedure of the National board in players' claims cases so as to give the fraternity of the club's defense an opportunity to reply.

AMERICAN SPEEDWAYS ASSOCIATION FORMED

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Practically every speedway in the United States will be governed by the new American Speedways association, formed here Wednesday. The organization hopes to increase public interest in auto racing.

WITHINGTON HOPES FOR WIN AGAINST HUSKY MINNESOTANS

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 16.—"Minnesota lost to Illinois, not because the Gophers played poorly, but because Illinois played above itself. I believe Wisconsin has an even chance to win from Minnesota, even though the game is to be played on Northrop field."

This was the opinion ventured by Coach Withington of the Wisconsin football team. A Badger victory this year will be welcomed almost as much as the conference championship, for Minnesota has beaten Wisconsin decisively during the past three seasons. The Badgers haven't scored a touchdown on Williams' men since the championship eleven of 1912.

Ice Visits Gridiron
Jack Frost has been busy at Minneapolis as well as in Madison, but hasn't brought any snow to Northrop field. But he did bring a freeze. Unless the Gopher authorities take special precautions the field on Saturday will be like Camp Randall was in 1911, almost as slippery as smooth ice.

In such an event Wisconsin will hold its chances for victory, will be better than would be the case if the game were played on an ideal field. For the Badgers believe they have been trained to take advantage of the breaks in luck which are almost sure to result on a slippery field.
In 1911 when Minnesota met Wisconsin here, Camp Randall was in the fastest shape ever—it was frozen. In the first minute of play, Capron of the Gophers, received a Badger kickoff and before the Wisconsin linemen could stop their charge and steer themselves toward the all for a touchdown. Later in the game Quarterback Moll of Wisconsin, raced forty yards around the Gopher left wing for a score. He got a fast start and no one got in front of him.

Seats Sell Fast
Dr. Withington put his men through another heavy workout on Wednesday. The first squad of players was to leave here Thursday night. As a reward for faithful work during the season, the third team which has acquired the name of "All-American" will be sent to the game. Fifteen of the freshman squad will also go.

FIGHT CALLED OFF

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 16.—Several hundred fight bugs here are peeved because when they went to the Armory to see the Duffy-Bloom scrap Thursday night they found Walter Burke, promoter, had called off the fight, apparently because of police interference.
